Federation Board Meeting

Dunn Loring Center, Room 108 (Entrance 2)

President's Message

Hello Members, Neighbors and Friends:

A new year signals new goals and resolutions; reflections on actions; and desires to reconnect with friends and family. Although the Federation's fiscal year is halfway over, the Federation experiences similar sentiments and is gearing up for the rest of the year. We wish you and your community best wishes for 2016.

This is the perfect time of year to look at what lies ahead for YOUR Federation and to see if there are any adjustments we can make which could make it an even better year! Could the Federation assist your HOA/Civic Association or District Council with added support such as a new program or an idea you've never done before? Have a casual conversation with your board members or other members (see list in this bulletin or on the website) about new possibilities. If you do, be sure to involve your membership and let the Federation know how it can assist your efforts.

On the Federation's agenda is the county's budget cycle and the 60-day session of the General Assembly. Our budget committee is lining up the troops, being led by our Budget Chair Curtis Anderson. The community can provide feedback to this important process by emailing the committee at Fed-BudgetChr2016@fairfaxfederation.org.

Your input in our budget process is invaluable and we thank you for your participation. To continue on the budget path, we will be hosting Superintendent of Fairfax County Schools, Dr. Karen Garza for our next meeting – NEW DATE – February 2nd. At the regularly scheduled February meeting on the 18th, our presentation includes both the school system's CFO and the county's CFO to answer your questions on this year's budgets.

The Federation submitted its 2016 Legislative Agenda to the entire Fairfax Delegation last fall and will publically present it again at their public meeting on Saturday, January 9th. More information is available on our website at www.fairfaxfederation.org. I am happy to report that Senator Favola has released news articles locally and statewide in her efforts to raise the tobacco tax with the revenues to fund education. This is a result of extremely long, yet productive, hours your Education Committee, chaired by Nancy Trainer and Ed Saperstein, have logged on this legislative item – driving and talking at all corners of the commonwealth on behalf of having funds to educate our kids WITHOUT RAISING your real estate taxes to pay for it.

Citizen of the Year

Nominations for the Federation's Fairfax County 2015 Citizen of the Year award will be accepted until January 31, 2016. Whom will you nominate? Is there anyone in your community, organization, or extended network whose volunteer contributions of time and talent have resulted in major accomplishments that increase the quality of life for the citizens of Fairfax County through the promotion and engagement of civil dialogue and actions? If so, please consider nominating them for Citizen of the Year. Even if they are not selected for that honor, they may be honored with a Citation of Merit or a Special Gratitude Award. More information is available on the Federation's COY page at:

You can see a map of the police events in your neighborhood, in your zip code, etc., at:

Twelve types of incidents are reported, mostly crimes.

Federation Workshop on County Urbanization

The Board of Supervisors (BOS) has underway a program to “urbanize” the county. “Urbanizing” means increasing the population density and the amount of commercial floor area. The most recent action by the Department of Planning and Zoning can be found under the heading “Planned Development Commercial (PDC), ...”, at:

<http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/dpz/zoningordinance/proposed/>

Because citizens have voiced concerns about the urbanization, the Federation is organizing a workshop on the topics of revitalization and urbanization. The workshop will be held on January 13, 2016, at 7:30 pm at the Providence Community Center, 3001 Vaden Drive, Fairfax, VA 22031.

Revitalization will be the focus of a BOS committee in which Supervisor Cook is taking a leading role. There is little demand for the older buildings. The committee will look for new and innovative ways to repurpose the existing, obsolete properties for housing, schools, or alternative commercial uses, thereby returning the empty office buildings to productive and tax-paying use. See

<http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/success/strategic-plan-facilitate-economic-success-2015.pdf>

Title 15.2 of the Code of Virginia deals with the powers of local governments. Chapters 11 and 22 are especially pertinent. Because rezoning against the will of the property owner is akin to condemnation by eminent domain, Title 25.1 is also pertinent.

The County's Planning Commission will conduct an informal public-input meeting on the subject at 7:30 PM on Wednesday, January 20, 2016, in the Board Auditorium in the Fairfax County Government Center at 12000 Government Center Parkway.

Library Matters

Kathy Kaplan, the Federation's Library Co-Chair, reports:

Library Director Sam Clay announced that he will be taking extended leave beginning January 14. This will be his last day in the office. He formally retires March 22, 2016.

Due to the failure of the Library Board search committee to find a candidate for Mr. Clay's job, the decision was made to re-create the position of Deputy Library Director. That position had been previously abolished. It is expected to be filled by a current FCPL library employee who will serve as acting library director until the Library Board hires a new library director. The deputy library director position will be advertised in a few days. See:

<http://ffxlibraryadvocates.blogspot.com/2015/12/new-search-process-for-library-director.html>

Tysons-Pimmit Regional Library will close for renovations at the end of January. An office building at 7700 Leesburg Pike will house the temporary library. The Friends of the Tysons-Pimmit Regional Library will be housed in the same office building and patrons are advised to continue book donations there during the 18-month renovation.

for details and snow dates. Jan 27 meeting will have Live stream coverage at 6:30 pm at Transform66.org.

Best Practices Document to Guide Future HOAs

Early in 2016, Virginia's Common Interest Community Board (CICB) published a guidance document entitled Best Practices of the Content of Property Owners Associations Declarations.

The Best Practices document, which contains 17 articles (sections), can be found at the following link (http://www.dpor.virginia.gov/CIC-Board/POA_Best_Practices/). The introduction states that the Best Practices document is not a "model declaration", but rather an overview of what should be included. The declaration (also referred to as the "covenants") is the most basic governing document of an HOA. Comments were accepted until late November, and the CICB considered a revised draft at its December meeting.

"This publication will help developers prepare better governing documents for future HOAs", reported Don Hinman, Chair of the Federation's Citizen Association's Committee. Hinman added, "Many HOAs across Virginia are greatly hindered in their ability to remedy violations because their declarations do not include specific authority to assess monetary charges to encourage compliance with HOA rules. Without such specific authority in an association's declaration, the basic choice when dealing with a homeowner violation is limited to (1) undertaking legal action to encourage compliance, or (2) taking no further action beyond writing a letter requesting compliance."

In this regard, a key provision in Best Practices is Article 5, entitled "Covenant and Rule Enforcement." Among other items, it states that people responsible for preparing declarations should consider including authority for HOAs to impose monetary charges to encourage compliance. The declaration should also include due process: if an HOA determines that a homeowner has violated a rule, then that owner has a right to adequate notice, an opportunity to correct the violation, and a hearing.

Inclusion of this recommendation in the CICB's Best Practices document is consistent with past Federation legislative priorities. In the 2014 General Assembly, the Federation supported a provision of an early version of HB 791 which would have restored authority to assess charges for rules violations to HOAs whose declarations did not include that authority. Despite Federation support, that provision was not included in the final bill.

If developers that prepare HOA legal documents follow Best Practices recommendations, and include authority to assess monetary charges, HOAs established in the future will have one more tool for effective self-governance. The Best Practices document includes numerous other provisions that HOA leaders should review.

The state law that governs the operation of HOAs, the Property Owner Association Act, or POAA, was amended by a 2015 law that required the CICB to prepare the Best Practices document. The law was based on HB 1632, introduced by Delegate David Bulova.

County Code and Zoning Ordinance Changes

On November 17, 2015, the Board of Supervisors replaced the previous section of the Fairfax County Code on Noise (Chapter 108) with a new version, effective February 17, 2016. Until that date, the existing ordinance, found at https://www.municode.com/library/va/fairfax_county/codes/code_of_ordinances?nodid=THCOCOFAVI1976_CH108.1NO prevails. The new version is available at: http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/dpz/zoning/noiseordinance/29-15-108_1.pdf

The Board also repealed Article 5.6 of the Fairfax County Code, which deals with Excessive Sound Generation in Residential Areas and Dwellings. The section that has been repealed can be found at https://www.municode.com/library/va/fairfax_county/codes/code_of_ordinances?nodid=FACOCO_CH5OF_ART6XSOGEREARDW

The noise ordinance is quite complex, but the changes generally extend the period of allowable 60 dB noise to 10 pm, as compared to the existing 9 pm. From 10 pm to 7 am, noise must be kept below 55 dB. The noise levels are to be measured at the property boundaries. Normal conversation is approximately at 55 dB.

The Department of Code Compliance (DCC) enforces the noise ordinance; however, the DCC works from 9 am to 4 pm — not during the hours of most violations.

The Board of Supervisors also adopted the following Zoning Ordinance Amendments on November 17, 2015, with an effective date of November 18, 2015:

- ZO-15-451: Donation Drop-off Boxes
- ZO-15-452: Alternative Lending Institutions

The adopted Zoning Ordinance amendment text is available at: <http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/dpz/zoningordinance/adopted/>.

The first adds regulations to designate donation drop-off boxes as a specific accessory use and establishes standards for placement and maintenance of such containers, including limitations on locations; number of containers per lot; dimensions of containers and restrictions on locations on-site and requirements for operator identification and contact information. The second establishes alternative lending institutions, to include motor vehicle title lenders and payday lenders, as a distinct land use in select commercial zoning districts with use limitations.

Changes to the Tysons Comprehensive Plan

The Greater Tysons Citizens Coalition (GTCC) submitted extensive comments on county's propose changes to the Comprehensive Plan for Tysons. Much of the work in compiling the comments was done by McLean Citizens Association's Rob Jackson, Sally Horn, Mark Zetts and Betty Yu. The comments can be seen at:

http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/tysons/download/greater_tysons_citizens_coalition_comments.pdf

Among the GTCC concerns is the almost unlimited amount of development that the county's proposal allows. The county is relying on mass transit to accommodate the new commuters.
